A young orphan named Anne Shirley accidentally finds her way into the lives of Matthew and Marilla Cuthbert, an elderly brother and sister who were expecting to adopt a boy to help on their farm. As Anne settles in, she brings with her a vibrant spirit and imagination that transforms the quiet Green Gables farm on Prince Edward Island. Despite initial reservations from Marilla, Anne's charm and zest for life soon win over both her and Matthew, changing their lives forever. In a fictional community, Bolingbroke, Nova Scotia, inspired by real-life New London, Prince Edward Island, Anne moves in with Marilla and Matthew Cuthbert, middle-aged siblings. Having spent her childhood in various foster homes and orphanages, Anne finds solace in making new connections. She rekindles her friendship with Diana after saving her sister from illness and develops a bond with Diana's affluent aunt. As Anne excels academically, she pursues a teaching license at Queen's College. Meanwhile, her connection with Gilbert deepens. (Rewritten using the "ADD SPELLING ERRORS (SE)" method)
